

UKG Training Solutions

Whether you are implementing, migrating, or adding new users, you can only realize the full value of your UKG system if end users are effectively trained to use it. Combining proven instructional design techniques with adult learning theory, our team and methodologies cultivate user adoption with early design and development of customized training solutions.

Establish and maintain full adoption

We plan, design, develop, and deliver customized, reusable training solutions for your end users – with the ability to track progress tailored to your objectives. As your systems or processes change, ensure your users stay current with our ongoing training support.

Easy

We break training materials into easily digestible components that end users can access anytime, anywhere.

Engaging

Users experience the system through simulations that let them explore and understand how it works. Each course is interactive and contains an assessment to ensure that the knowledge sticks.

Relevant

All training is customized to your configuration, policies, and procedures, so what users see in training is what they see in the live environment. We consider audience, behavior, conditions, and system design to ensure effectiveness.
